

The Gouldian Finch Project is funded by the Queensland Department of Environment and Science via a Citizen Science Grant administered by North Queensland Natural History Group.

Project Photos December 2020

A subadult female moulting late in the Dry, November 2020 Dry. R Pierce.

Jeff and Patrick collecting detritus in a Gouldian Finch feeding area late in 2020 Dry. At this stage of the year the Gouldians were feeding mainly on fallen seed such as firegrass and speargrass species.

Adult male Gouldian foraging in a recently burnt area during the storm season, December 2020. At this time of year Gouldians were feeding on the previous season's seeds, including firegrass, and some new growth including sedges, and insects. Photo R. Pierce.

Gouldian Finch citizen scientists assessing a Gouldian Finch feeding area during December 2020.